

(NO) MONEY IN THE BANK

NATIONAL CHOCOLATE
WAFER DAY

National Chocolate Wafer Day 2021 Press Pack

Performed & Written by:
Thom Bee & Andrew Marsh

JOIN RABBLE ROUSERS (NO) MONEY IN THE BANK
TO CELEBRATE THE HOLIDAY MOST CHOCOLATEY

GAMES, PRESENTS, & A WAFER THIN HISTORY OF THIS MOST CHOCUMENTAL DAY

SAT. 3 JULY 5.30PM
CAXTON ARMS BRIGHTON

The Show

Join rabble-rousers (No) Money in the Bank to celebrate the holiday most chocolatey. There will be games, presents & a wafer-thin story about the history of this chocumental day. If you like chocolate, if you like wafers & if you like messy, absurdist comedy mayhem then this is the show for you.

Full Show Bio

Thom Bee & Andrew Marsh, more affectionately known as (No) Money in the Bank (NMitB), realised that they had a show booked for Brighton on July 3rd. With no real plans, they googled what national holidays fell on that day and decided to build a whole show around the chocumental celebration 'National Chocolate Wafer Day', the boys' third show together.

The show is a one-off performance (unless there's a show booked for July 3rd 2022) just for Brighton. National Chocolate Wafer Day will take NMitB's trademark love for audience games, character comedy, and making absolute fools of themselves in the name of a massive party to celebrate the nation's favourite biscuit treat.

One-half house party, one-half Great British Bake Off Audition, and all an example of alternative comedy at it's finest, National Chocolate Wafer Day promises to be an unforgettable experience.

(No) Money in the Bank

Otherwise known as Thom Bee & Andrew Marsh, (No) Money in the Bank are an alternative comedy double-act, comedians, best friends, and absolute weirdos. The pair bonded at a show over their mutual love of wrestling, pop-punk and 90s sitcoms, and now all they do is create shows that reflect these mutual loves.

Thom & Andrew have written and performed two one-hour long shows together for Edinburgh Fringe. 2018's '(No) Money in the Bank', and 2019's 'Nobody Likes You When You're 33'. A wrestling themed and pop-punk themed show respectively. The duo took their first show on the road with a rip-roaring self-funded tour across the UK, playing at several comedy festivals across the UK, including those in Glasgow, Leicester, and Brighton. They are now devising their third show, as well as their own solo shows.

(No) Money in the Bank have performed all over the UK for a variety of nights, usually opting for the more community led, alternative spaces like ACID comedy in Leeds, or Blizzard, Manchester. They take pride in being able to give any room a momentous experience.

Thom & Andrew also run their own alternative comedy night 'Valhalla of Decadence' in Leeds, as well as being closely associated with a lot of the North's alternative comedy scene. During the pandemic, they have been focussing their attention on the weekly, online talk-show 'Social Distance Warriors', with Blizzard Comedy's Kirstie Summers, which combines interviews with bands, comedians, and artists with madcap games.

(No) Money in the Bank are the closest thing to a punk band's mentality in the world of stand-up comedy. They always bring that DIY ethic and chaotic stage presence to every performance they put on.

Press

'Loveably chaotic!'

Blizzard Comedy

'...a consummate professional who took everything in his stride, kept the audience laughing, and made the performers feel very welcome on stage.'

PLAY Festival

'An absolute must...'

Screen Jabber

Press Images:

<https://1drv.ms/u/s!Asq8-IDntnw-g4NM3ORK0BjeCf8EQg?e=cUqe3k>

Password:

WaferDay2021

Tech

- PA System
- x2 Handheld Microphones
- x1 Table
- Projector Screen
- Projector
- Enough space on stage for 2 performers
- Elevated stage area NOT required
- Basic lighting set-up
- Sound/Lighting Desk

All tech requirements can be met by the performers with the exception of a PA System and table. However, if any of these can be provided by the venue, then it is greatly appreciated.

(No) Money in the Bank are able to provide their own technicians and door staff.

Contact

Lead Contact:

Thom Bee

E-Mail:

info@nomoneyinthebank.com

Telephone:

+447810793393

Website:

www.nomoneyinthebank.com

@NMitBank

/nomoneyinthebank

@NMitBank

'No Money in the Bank'